MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S WELCOME HOME.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

SOUTHAMPTON, March 14th.

Southampton has often been the scene of departures and arrivals of famous soldiers and statesmen, whose going and coming were fraught with import to the history of the Empire. That her citizens have never stunted their enthusiasm on these occasions we know full well; for does not good Froissart tell us, in his own quaint way, of the great feasting which occurred when our forebears departed for the glorious fields of Cressy and Poitiers? Neither have they done so during these later epoch-making years of our history. From the winter of 1890 to the spring of 1902 the inhabitants of this old city have been the last to wish our troops "God speed," and the first to welcome them home again in the smiling and wet eyes, our men, with a hearty cheer. They have proved again on this March morning that their fund of patriotism is far from exhausted, and their reception of our popular and talented Colonial Secretary was a grand one. Southampton can flatter herself as having echoed the sentiments of the British nation in a manner meet to the occasion. The morning was cold, windless and somewhat misty, not so much so however as to blot out from the expectant throngs which had assembled early in the Docks, the bright sailing which all the ships in port were flying. The long shore line was lined with flags and bunting, and the windows of the houses, which were draped with Union Jacks and the Stars and Stripes, (this last a delicate compliment to Mrs. Chamberlain), a carpet was placed along the wharf to the gangway. The interior of the shed tastefully decorated with bunting and garlands of flowers contained a big privileged public who were separated from the line of march by wooden barriers. The quay itself was strictly reserved for the local authorities, the friends and family of the fourth estate. Amongst others were present: the Mayor and his municipal staff accompanied by the members of the Chamberlain family, P. M. General, Miss Chamberlain, Sir Charles Owens, Sir Robert Herbert, the Hon. J. Scott-Montagu, M.P., Lady Cecil Montagu, Colonel Stapleton, embarkation officer, Captain Morgan and some of the leading local gentry.

There was a brief period of waiting during which the writer speculated on the great advantage it would be to British prestige in Hongkong that city possess a red-robed Mayor with brightly bedizened acolytes. One of the civic weapons, borne by a sturdy three-cornered macebearer, which seemed a cross between the Lion's battle-axe and a Canton executioner's sword, would certainly have been of impressive potent to the uneducated masses of our Celestial subjects. Such thoughts were suddenly routed, however, for the silence of this misty morning, when the slightest sound carries far, was broken by the shrill whistle of welcome from the tugs, which was answered by the deep booming drone of the Norman's siren. Gradually the form of the great liner emerged from the mist and grew more distinct as she drew nearer and nearer to the quay. From an artistic point of view the effect was admirable. A perfect symphony in grey. The blue grey of the big ship's hull toning gently into the grey of the haze which seemed to wrap her all around. Right to the line, the vessel drew alongside the wharf and her advent was signalled by the cheers of the spectators in the shed, which cheers were taken up and repeated over and over again by the dense crowds assembled in the docks and along the line of route. As the ship was being moored Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain stood on the promenade deck amongst the other passengers. The Minister, who looked fit and well and was tanned by the sun, wore a dark blue overcoat with an astrachan collar and a silk hat. Mrs. Chamberlain, who looked really charming, as she waved her greetings to her family and friends on shore, was attired in a dark travelling costume and hat with black wings. The gangway was soon up and the Southampton deputation went on board. After a few words of greeting from the Mayor, Miss Sanders, the acting mayor, presented Mrs. Chamberlain a handsome bouquet of red and white orchids and maiden hair fern; and a pretty incident occurred when the same lady handed the Colonial Secretary a magnificent white orchid for his button hole, for it had been remarked by all on his arrival that the right honourable gentleman was without his favourite embellishment. After a few minutes of conversation the distinguished company landed and proceeded in their carriages to the hall of the Hartly Institute.

After a triumphant passage through the Docks, up Oxford Street, Bernard Street and High Street, all of which thoroughfares were brightly decorated and lined with dense cheering crowds, Mr. Chamberlain and his suite arrived at the Hartly Institute at 9.40 a.m. It must here be said that the interior decorations of the hall were far from effective, and were rather like what one might expect to find in a workman's club on Xmas day. The balconies were festooned with a decidedly dingy red cloth, and the platform was draped in red, white and blue, with more fringes. Surrounded by the lower gallery and facing the platform was a panel on which were the words "Welcome Home," in white letters on a red ground, and lastly the hall was hung with a multiplicity of silken Chinese Banners of scores of them all alike three colored, green bordered, with the rampant dragon on a yellow ground. What visions they conjured up these dowdy relics, as they floated over the heads of close on 2,000 British subjects, packed into this small building, awaiting with eager expectation on the words of this most popular and best hated of our statesmen. The vision of stinking, narrow, crowded streets and dirty, yellowed, filthy, bedraggled braves and runners of fat, eager, rapacious mandarins, and of all the tawdry paraphernalia of the rotting Chinese judicial or military administration and of its consequent dangers to British lives and British interests. Truly, we of the East should be grateful to those who were responsible for these accessories, for surely it would hardly have been possible to give a more gentle and suggestive hint to our Colonial Secretary as to which part of the world he should next turn his attention.

When Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, together with the other distinguished visitors, had taken their seats on the platform, and the repeated applause from the spectators had subsided, an address of welcome was read. It was much the same as all addresses are, the only thing striking about it being the contrast between the rather dingy foreshadowing upon which it was written and the immaculate, perfectly-fitting, white, kid gloves which covered the hand of the bejewelled and bearded "Town Clerk" who held it as he read. This function finished, the Mayor, who is an old schoolmate of our Colonial Secretary, delivered a short, well-felt oration, the effects of which were somewhat marred, however, by the emotion of that high municipal officer, and which led him, in referring to the students who were at the London University College with Mr. Chamberlain and who, like this Minister, have since then, to emigrate to design to them as: "that small race of gigantic young intellects." Then came the moment for which so many had waited with impatience, and the Minister took the floor. The platform and was greeted with a perfect storm of applause. The right honourable gentleman spoke in his usual cold and unimpassioned manner, the very quietness of which lent force to his words, and which imposed conviction by the very absence of any effort of "playing to the gallery." He began with a note of just warning. People, he said, must not expect too great immediate results from his journey, for the process of bringing about complete confidence and mutual goodwill between the two races would be slow, but he was confident it would be sure. The ideal of the Dutch had always been supremacy of the British, (it was noticeable that he was careful to use the word in its broadest sense), political equality. Another true note he struck, which will be appreciated as it merits by all those of our race who dwell in our possessions when he stated that the characteristic of the British overseas, wherever he lived and whatever might be his interests in the colony, was that he always keeps a ter der place in his heart for the motherland and retains his pride in the British Empire. Of the man, I think, the chief impression one receives is that of quiet strength—a steel hand in a velvet glove—a discreet firmness allied to a confidence which begets confidence in others.

The close of the speech was marked by enthusiastic applause. On a call from Alderman Dunsford three cheers were given for Mr. Chamberlain and three more for his charming helpmate, and the proceedings having terminated a procession was formed to accompany the city guests to the station. The route from High St. to the West Station was gaily decorated and crowded with spectators who received the Colonial Secretary with ringing acclamations. By now the weather had turned fair and the spring sunshine made the convoy itself a most bright and exhilarating one. The escort was furnished by the local Yeomanry corps, and the route lined by the Hampshire Royal Garrison Artillery Volunteers and the 2nd V. B. Hampshire Regiment, whose smart appearance and bright uniforms added considerably to the picturesque quality of the spectacle. During the few minutes which elapsed before the special started, Mr. Chamberlain expressed, to those present, in a few well chosen words, on behalf of himself and his wife, the gratification which they felt for the welcome accorded them by the people of this old Han's port. Punctually at 10.45 a.m. the train moved out of the station bearing the popular minister to the still grander reception which awaited him by the population of the capital.

THE WORD OF HONOUR.

The men who do as they say; the things that prove to be what they were said to be,—how cheering it is to come upon them. We all hate to be deceived; especially when the deception is intentional. But all men are not liars, even if David did say so in his haste. If they were society would be impossible. Everybody knows that business is based on credit, on faith. Millions are bought and sold daily on nothing more solid than the pledged promises of men,—not written, merely verbal. The Stock Exchanges are often called nests of gamblers, yet nowhere is a promise held in greater honour. Therefore when we say that the tried and effective remedy called never deceives any who resort to it in hope of benefit and cure, we may expect to be believed. For this assurance is given on what it has done in the past in countless cases,—on its record. It is only recommended to accomplish what it was made to accomplish. Its action in Chlorosis, Anemia, Scrofula, General Debility, Throat and Lung Troubles, Blood Impurities, etc. is convincing. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Dr. Austin D. Irvine, of Canada, says: "I have used it in cases where cod liver oil was indicated but could not be taken by the patient, and the results following were very gratifying." It is effective from the first dose and agrees with the most sensitive and nervous stomachs. One bottle proves its intrinsic value. It cannot deceive or disappoint you, and comes to the rescue of those who have received no benefit from any other treatment. It stands for the medical triumphs of the age. "Watch carefully against imitations." Sold by chemists here and everywhere and A. S. Watson & Co., Limited.

The Hongkong Telegraph

HONGKONG, TUESDAY, APRIL 21, 1903.

THE SUBORDINATE CIVIL SERVICE.

In the introductory chapter to his excellent little work on the silver standard and the currency question, Mr. August Huttenbach asserts that, if the labourer is worth his hire and if that is to mean a steady and stable income, the labourer no longer gets that high since the closing of the Indian Mints. Ever since then prices have risen and as it is notorious in the Colony, no less than in all places where wages are earned in silver and the commodities paid for upon the convertible basis of the sovereign at the rate of the day, the wage-earning classes have been the greatest sufferers. The welfare of those classes has, with but few exceptions, considerably deteriorated. Mr. Huttenbach cites as the exceptions those with gold salaries and a few others. "And these exceptions," he goes on to state, "have only made less fortunate wage earners feel their position the more keenly and has led to dissatisfaction and discontent, envy and class-hatred, not the least regrettable effect of the system." This is precisely what has been revealed in Hongkong by the publication of the two petitions from the members of the subordinate Civil Service of the Colony. In one of these documents the memorialists represent that "in the departments of the Civil Government of Hongkong, officers, other than your Petitioners and the Chinese members of the Service, have, under the title of Exchange Compensation, been receiving increments to their nominal salaries in accordance with a sliding scale determined by the average rate of exchange obtainable for each month. This mode of adjustment of salaries is a fair and equitable one, and it is this concession your Petitioners pray might also be extended to them." In the case of the Chinese clerks in the Government Service a like representation is made but in the following terms:—

"In years past the fall in exchange was felt more by those who were in the habit of remitting money to England and of purchasing commodities of English manufacture than by your Petitioners; and the Government, by introducing the system of Exchange Compensation, applied a sufficient remedy to the grievance as felt by this class of their servants. Under this system Civil Servants are at present drawing salaries nearly double the nominal amount to which they are officially entitled, while your Petitioners have never had any such general measure of relief extended to them, and the salaries that they draw remain unchanged, however greatly the decline in the value of silver may affect their respective purchasing power."

"A distinction," to quote the words of the petition, "has clearly been introduced into the Service," whereby certain officers have been, and are being, fully compensated for the fall in the value of the dollar, while the petitioners, who are also very seriously affected by that fall, are left without the least measure of relief. To what extent that distinction has been created will best be seen in the 12th and 13th paragraphs of the second petition, reproduced in our columns on Saturday. In 1894 officers domiciled in gold-using countries first began to draw their exchange compensation and this was calculated upon a portion of their salaries to assist officers, principally, in the matter of their "family remittances." Subsequently, on 1st January, 1902, greater liberality on the part of the Colony was evinced towards its officials when the scheme was so modified as to make the compensation apply to the whole of the dollar salaries of the more fortunate servants of the Crown, whose salaries became thus raised by no less than ninety per cent., irrespective of the fact whether or not the officers were under the necessity of making remittances home. It should be stated that the grant of the exchange compensation did not act as a cancellation of the increments attached to salaries on an incremental scale, following the recommendations for a revision of salaries a few years since. While, on the one hand, a section of the public servants are in receipt of nearly double their nominal salary earnings, on the other a niggardly 15 per cent. was doled out to their less favoured brethren in January, 1901, and that after a lapse of nine years from the date of the previous general increase of salaries. It has been remarked that prosperity and advance are marked by a general higher standard of living. If that be so the vaunted prosperity of the Colony must be true and realisable only by those who depend for it upon those "horses of the mill" whose income has been so reduced that their standard of living must, of necessity, have become lower. We need not recall the unseemly haste with which communications were made with the Colonial Office by telegraphic despatches and otherwise to put into effect the concurrence of the Legislative Council in the grant of exchange compensation. But the contrast in the methods of procedure of the local Government is so striking as to evoke the criticism which it forcibly excites. In spite of the strongest claim which the subordinate employees of Government put forward in most convincing arguments and in language unadorned by the bombast of rhetoric, the signatories to the petitions are informed, through the heads of their respective departments, that the Governor did not see his way to recommend any further general increase of salaries or the grant of exchange compensation. The laconic dismissal of the petition is, to put it mildly, most galling and lacking in that courtesy which the superior officers might well have shown to their inferiors without any loss of dignity. It is no wonder that whenever opportunity offers outside the public service, those who can avail themselves of it promptly resign the positions they hold under Government. Clerks in the Government departments are now eschewed by the better-class hands and they are now regarded with that degree of unpopularity that the efficiency of the clerical service must be felt to be somewhat impaired. We have no means of ascertaining the real truth, but it has been suggested that instructions from Downing Street have been sent out to Hongkong that officers in receipt of a certain rate of salary should be allowed the privilege of the compensation grant. These instructions, for reasons that remain to be explained, have not been carried into effect. Will any of our unofficial members of Council render the public service of questioning the Government as to the alleged existence of the instructions to which we refer? Explanation is undoubtedly called for. We recall the unanimous support which was given by them when the question of exchange compensation was first brought under consideration—a support which was endorsed by the colonists in good grace. We are not, however, unmindful that then the big-wigs were most concerned, but now that the little fry seek to obtain what no one will deny they should get, will the Council be as ready to sympathise with the cause of the weak? The Chinese petition has been before the public; they have had time to consider its merits. From our point of view a strong case has been made out by the subordinate officials, and if the two Chinese members on the Council are all they presume to be, solicitous of the interests of their fellow-citizens, let them espouse the cause of those of their countrymen who, with the other subordinate employees, deserve better at the hands of the Colony whose servants they are.

It is stated that the colonies are heartily supporting the new movement started by the League of the Empire for the establishment of correspondence clubs for English and colonial children. The Agents-General are exhibiting a very friendly interest in the League, and have largely helped to develop the movement by linking schools, English and Colonial, for friendly competition and exchange of specimens for school museums. The colonial portion of the work is well advanced, and while at Capetown Mr. Chamberlain addressed the South African branch of the League.

THE Castle Peak Farm is conducted under scientific supervision and no contaminating fertilizing agencies are employed in the cultivation of vegetables, which are grown from European and American seeds. A few days since we received a few specimens of the many varieties of the vegetables grown at the Castle Peak establishment and can testify to their worth. They were forwarded from the Farm Stall, No. 22, Central Market and arrived in excellent condition. We understand that the object of the growers is to raise and provide the public with healthful and wholesome vegetables which, as is generally known, are so deficient in our markets here.

BEFORE Mr. J. H. DEATH OF MR. J. H. MACLEHOSE.

A familiar face has passed away; poor old Maclehoise is no more. A friend of many departed China hands (he was the first Britisher born in Hongkong); he made his genial presence felt among those with whom he was acquainted, no matter whether it was a quiet evening at Macao or in the business circles of Hongkong. Of late he has not been seen much "down town," and some few months ago went away to Japan to recuperate his failing health. Since his return he had been at the Peak Hospital, where he passed quietly away from heart failure at one o'clock this morning. Mr. James Henry Maclehoise was 50 years of age, and for over thirty years had been connected with the firm of Messrs. MacEwen, Frickel and Co., recently in the capacity of Manager. The funeral took place this afternoon and was attended by many friends of the deceased gentleman.

THE HEALTH OF THE COLONY.

The number of deaths from plague recorded in the Colony during the week ended 18th inst. shows a considerable increase over the figures of the preceding week. From a return showing the number of cases of communicable diseases which have been notified as having occurred in the Colony during the week ended last Saturday it would appear that 51 cases were reported. Of these 47 were fatal—45 being Chinese and two Indians. In Health District No. 2, there were 10 cases and 15 deaths. During the preceding week there were 25 cases, 22 of which proved fatal. The total number of cases notified from the 1st January up to noon to-day was 299, 284 of which ended fatally. During the week under review there was one European case of enteric fever and one fatal Chinese case of small-pox.

FIRES IN HONGKONG.

THREE OUTBREAKS.

Since the beginning of this month up to the time of writing there have been no less than eight fires in Hongkong. The first occurred on the 4th instant, when five houses in Queen's Road West were entirely gutted; on the 6th, a carpenter's shop in No. 19 Circular Pathway was consumed by the flames; on the 7th, a slight outbreak occurred on the s.s. Olympia, and on the 18th there were two fires, one at No. 324 Queen's Road Central, when a medicine shop was entirely gutted, and the other, at No. 205 Queen's Road West. Last night there were two outbreaks—one in Wellington Street, and another at Fat Hing Street, and at 8.30 this morning the Brigade was summoned to No. 205 Shek Tong Tsui. Regarding the first outbreak last night, which occurred at nine o'clock on the first floor of No. 57 Wellington Street, used as a tailor's shop, very little damage was done. The Brigade, with the assistance of some natives, soon extinguished the fire in which a few chairs and some floor matting was destroyed. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lighted kerosene lamp. At 1.50 a.m. the Brigade, under Mr. P. J. Wodehouse and Acting Chief Inspector Baker, was summoned to No. 12 Fat Hing Street, behind the Man On Insurance Company, where an outbreak had occurred. It was found that the flames had got a very good hold on the premises, but the firemen concentrated no less than four hoses on the burning house, and although the fire looked like spreading to right and left, the flames were confined to the one house which was a three-storied building. The ground floor was used as a plumber's shop, the first floor as a medicine shop (insured with the Hung On Insurance Company for $700 only), and the second floor as a family dwelling house. It is reported that the fire was caused by some medicinal herbs, which were being dried on the first floor, becoming ignited. The two adjoining houses, viz., Nos. 12 and 13, were also badly damaged by fire and water. They were used as tailors' and family residences.

While the majority of business men were at breakfast at 8.45 this morning the fire-bell again rang, and some of the members of the Brigade who had scarcely returned from the second outbreak in Fat Hing Street again donned on their rigs, and, under Mr. P. J. Wodehouse and Acting Chief Inspector Baker, proceeded to Shek Tong Tsui, where in No. 205 Koon Hoi Low, a Chinese restaurant recently erected and managed by Mr. Tsang King, the contractor, a fire had broken out. It originated in the kitchen where servants were boiling water. The fire was put out before much damage had been caused.

THE LILLIPUTIAN'S LAST PERFORMANCE.

To-night the Pollards close their season with Weber & Field's great American burlesque Pousse Café, which the Manila papers say is their best effort. The whole company leave per S.S. Empress of India to-morrow for Shanghai where they play for five weeks, and then go on per S.S. Albatross for Vancouver where they open on the 22nd of June, from whence they go to Dawson City and return to British Columbia, and on through the States, finishing their American tour in New York at the end of 1905, returning this way in 1906. All Hongkong will join with us and wish them a pleasant journey round the world.

THE YOKOHAMA SPECIE BANK, LIMITED.

The report presented to the shareholders at the half-yearly ordinary general meeting held at Yokohama on the 10th ult. was as follows:—
Gentlemen:—The directors submit to you the annexed statement of the liabilities and assets of the bank, and profit and loss accounts for the half-year ending December 31st, 1902.

The gross profits of the bank for the past half-year, including yen 495,073.265 brought forward from last account, amount to yen 6,333,448.935, of which yen 4,397,598.884 have been deducted for current expenses, interest, etc., leaving a balance yen 1,935,850.051.

The Directors now propose that yen 500,000.000 be added to the Reserve Fund, raising it to yen 9,060,000.000, and that yen 200,000 be put aside as special reserve to provide for the depreciation of the silver funds. From the remainder the Directors recommend a dividend at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum, which will absorb yen 720,000.000 on old shares and yen 360,000.000 on new shares, making a total of yen 1,080,000.000.

The balance, yen 505,850.071, will be carried forward to the credit of next account.

NAGATANE SOMA, chairman.

Head Office, Yokohama, 10th March, 1903.

AT THE DOCKS.

Fire broke out in the engine-room store on the American freighter Hyades, in dock at Kowloon, yesterday. The inflammable oils made a big bang, and before the flames were overcome the woodwork room and all its contents were wrecked, but the adjoining ship-work, which was of iron, was unharmed. The Hyades arrived here badly bruised last month after a tough encounter with the Pacific. The bow plates were stove in and it has been necessary to unriver, roll and re-rivet them. Other extensive repairs are also being effected.

The s.s. Montana, undergoing repairs at Kowloon, looks as if she was being broken up; daylight can be seen through her in several places. No doubt, when the Dock Co. have finished with her she will be an A 1 ship.

The French mail Tonkin is having a new tail-shaft put in at the Kowloon Docks.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING FOR MACAO.

The city of Macao is to be installed with electric light and the Government are advertising for tender. The exclusive privilege is to be leased for a term of 30 years to the firm securing the contract. Tenderers must stipulate in Mexican dollars the amount at which they are prepared to supply the power.

THE CLOSING OF THE CANTON RICE SHOPS.

(From Our Correspondent.)

Canton, April 20th.
The rice dealers refuse to pay the additional tax. Some of the shops closed yesterday, but the closing will be general to-day unless some arrangement is arrived at. This is an imperial tax and the money is to go to pay the indemnity, so the people say. It is not to be wondered at that the people should refuse to pay. The price of rice is high, has been gradually rising until everybody is complaining.

The rice shops are still doing a little business with closed doors. The protest is general so that throughout the city all the shops are closed. No rice is being shelled. The tax is levied according to the number of "mortars" in a shop. These shops have from one to fifty mortars in which the rice is pounded and upon these tax is levied. If some arrangement is not come to very quickly there is sure to be disorder. The people buy by the meal, at least a great many do this. Then there are a few who have enough rice on hand to last a few days. But the doors cannot remain closed 24 hours without causing distress.

The new tax came into force at noon yesterday, and the authorities being prepared for resistance despatched soldiers to arrest non-payers. At one shop four men were arrested and subsequently another three were taken in charge. The tax is reported to be a squeeze on the two large shamsu's distilleries and the rice shops thus being affected resistance is being offered. It is probable, however, that the matter will be settled in a few days.

THE PLAGUE.

During the twenty-four hours ended at noon to-day 21 further cases of bubonic plague, making 299 since January 1st, were reported. Six were from No. 2, health district.
